Bryan High Is Tops . . .

BRYAN

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Bryan's newly adopted official seal and motto was the work of three Bryan High School alumni. The seal was proposed by Mr. Mose Isaac and designed by William Shearman. The motto was the idea of Mrs. Ted Connin.

T EACHERS at Bryan High are truly "molders of men." They guide and motivate; they inspire us to seek and learn; they impress upon us an awareness of our obligation to make our fullest contribution to life.

O PPORTUNITY for work of superior calibre is available in the environment provided by the -people of Bryan. Colorful classrooms, well-equipped labs, spacious gymnasium, and complete vocational facilities encourage serious effort.

P ROGRAMS that are broad in scope and intense in depth prepare us to meet the demands of higher education, commercial enterprises, or our advancing vocational and industrial fields.

S TUDENTS gain the satisfaction of real achievement, whether through the completion of a history project or the excitement of being elected officer of a club. Teachers, Opportunity, Programs, and Students make Bryan High TOPS.

Parade of Memorable Moments . . .

Too late for inclusion in the 1961 yearbook, four big spring events will remain unforgettable experiences — the GAA Honor Night, the Latin Club Banquet, the Junior-Senior prom, and the Panorama of Music.

GAA HONOR NIGHT

Chivalry lived again when the GAA presented "The Night of Knights" for their annual honor banquet and ball. The gym was transformed into a medieval castle with a horse and knight as the center attraction. The cafeteria served as the banquet hall with loving cups as table decorations. Bryan's first Honor Girl, Mrs. Earl Oberlin, spoke at the banquet, and the lords and their ladies danced to the music of Dick Showalter's Combo.

SHALL WE JOUST? asks Garvin Shankster. Janie Ames, Helene Opdycke, and Gary Lantz await Shelley Gorny's answer.

ROMAN BANQUET

Latin Club students garbed in Roman costumes reclined to eat a four-course banquet with entertainment provided between courses. The walls of the cafeteria were decorated with murals depicting the lives of great Romans. Trinkets including bul-las, signet rings, and jacks were passed out with explanations of the Roman custom signified by each and a beat-nik play "Ulysses and Penelope" was presented. Mrs. Orville Dally, oratoria egregia, spoke to the group in the character of Romulus's wife.

HAIL CAESAR! Bob Urfer salutes the Roman leader as Neil Wertz and Gail Bundy smile in agreement.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

A "Carousel" of merriment was the 1961 Junior-Senior theme. The gala evening began with a banquet prepared by Mrs. Carr and her cafeteria staff and served under a striped pavillion. Toastmaster Dennis Stombaugh, speaker Dr. Darrel Linder, and a barbershop quartette, the Nomads, entertained the guests, who danced later to the music of Ernie Duffield's band. The merry-go-round of post-prom activities included a movie. "Mardi Gras," and carnival sponsored by the parents of juniors.

Tools for Learning in Our Hands

We learn by reading and writing.

We learn by watching and listening.

We learn by doing.

Throughout twelve years in school we have one goal — to learn. Learning is our business; our reward depends on what we learn, and how well. The tools we need are here — the books and the assignments; the classrooms with their armchairs, chalk and blackboards; the shops with drawing boards and lathes and projects to be done; the labs with test tubes and bunsen burners, and cages with animals in them, aquariums and microscopes; the gleaming machinery of homemaking; and the noisy slaves of the commercial world. Most of all we have the teachers who can show us the way, and friends to listen to and talk things over with.

In some the will to learn is strong and steady;
in some it wavers, veering here and there.
But for us all, the tools are here.

Communication Skills Are Basic

Since effective communication is a vital skill in this academic world, the language arts department emphasized the ability to make better use of words, spoken, written, or read. Occupying at least one-sixth of our school day, language arts ranged from the basic structures of the classics to the highly technical rules of modern grammarians.

Latin attracted 188 students, fourteen of whom translated the orations of Marcus Tullius Cicero in Latin III, alternating with Vergil in Latin IV. The film "Demetrius and the Gladiator" and slides on Roman amusements enriched study of the Eternal City.

With a record enrollment, one-hundred Spanish I and II students vitalized studies with recordings, newspapers, films, correspondence, and air-bourne television.

"You blocks! You stones! You worse than senseless things!" rang through the halls as Speech students recited one of many memorized speeches. Speech students were trained in all aspects of this tool of democracy from its physiological basis to a finished delivery. Pantomimes, debates, interpretive reading and practical study in Parliamentary Procedure were phases of the universal function delved into by the class.

Journalism class, an elective for seniors, gained valuable information from the new textbook, NEWS IN PRINT, to publish the school newspaper, HI-Life, every three weeks.

GET THAT POINT! ABOVE: Students in Mrs. Baltosser's Sophomore English class practice speed reading. RIGHT: Larry Lirot points out to Kay Smith an aspect of Roman architecture.

English departmental meetings every Wednesday laid the foundations for a new vocabulary development and composition program and stressed volume reading by organizing a reading record for all underclassmen. This record will remain as a permanent file and indicate not only the number of books but the type of literature the student is familiar with. All English classes participated in the Campus Book Club program.

In the fall freshmen were instructed in the use of the library and later they supplemented studies of great American classics with the film "Little Women."

Controlled reading captured the sophomores' eye during classtime in second semester, while first semester it was offered by Mr. Johnson to seniors only at noon-time.

Juniors sought the hidden gems of American literature and spent one six weeks period as a refresher in English grammar.

After the first three years of required English, approximately half the seniors studied college prep English IV. Tape recordings and records enriched their literary studies of the "sceptered isle."

Social Studies Aid Mature Thought

From the battles of ancient Greece to the threat of nuclear war, the sixty sophomores studying the elective world history gained a strong background with the aid of air-borne TV, tape recordings and records.

Required to take U.S. history, juniors applied the past to the present and sparked interest with panel discussions and outside texts. For the second year they prepared a map display to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the Civil War.

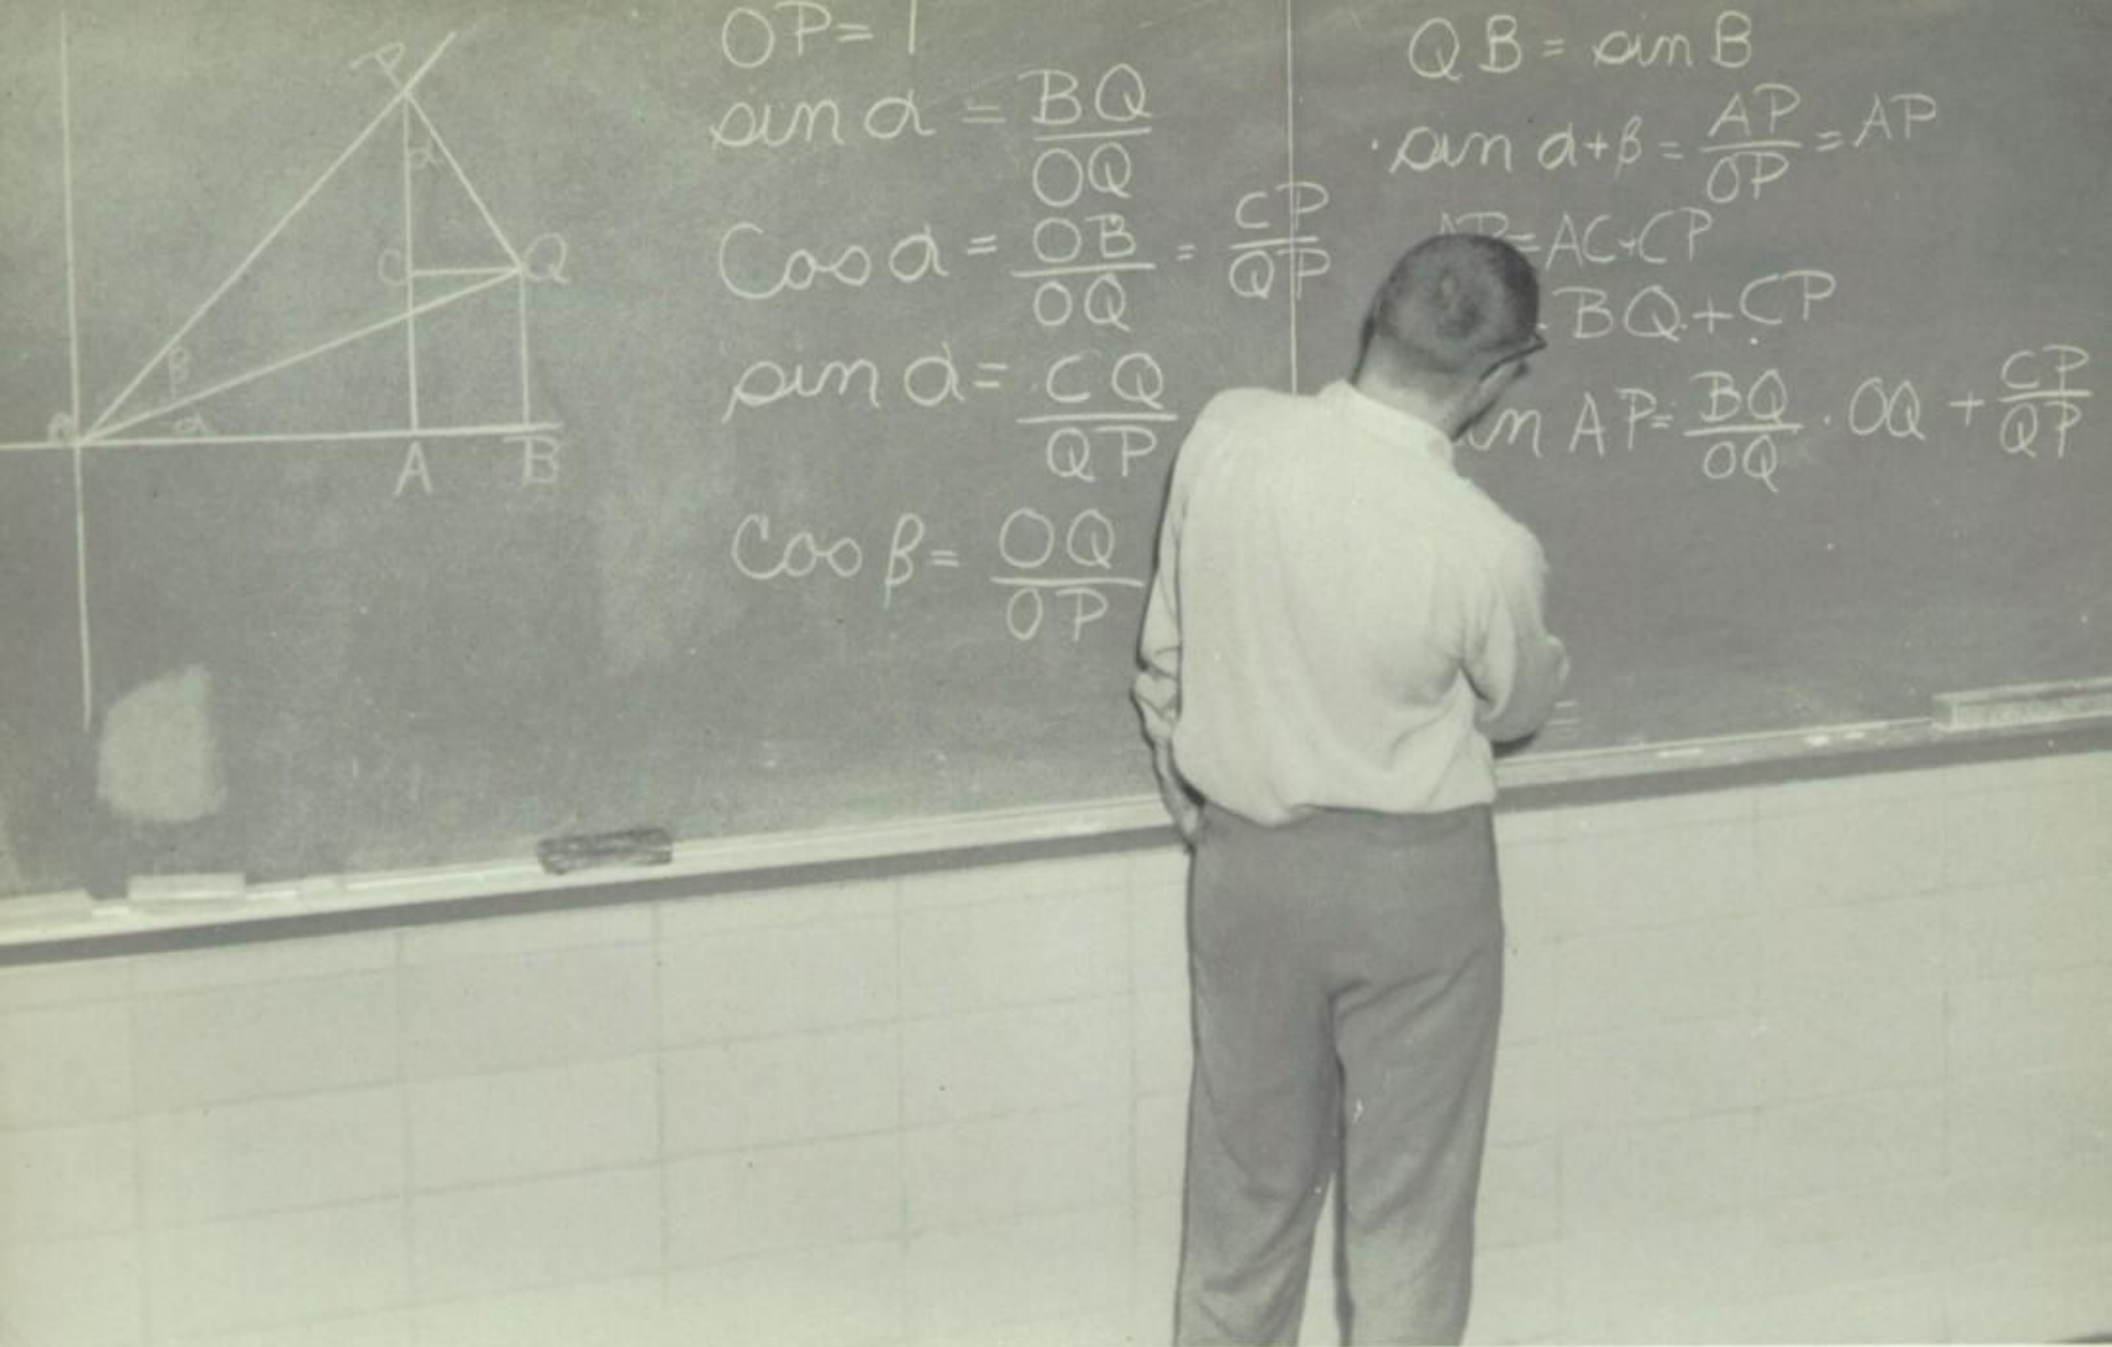

Reflecting a keen interest in the subjects, ninety-five seniors enrolled in one semester courses, psychology and sociology. They prepared weekly research papers and recorded their debates on such topics as family living and teenage reactions to crises. During the Christmas holidays psychology classes spent a profitable day visiting Lima State Hospital.

American government and economics, compulsory for all seniors, prepared students for their role as adult citizens. They supplemented studies by diagramming the Court House, visiting voting precincts, studying income tax, and hearing a guest speaker on social security. In addition the course included six weeks of Ohio government and weekly current discussions.

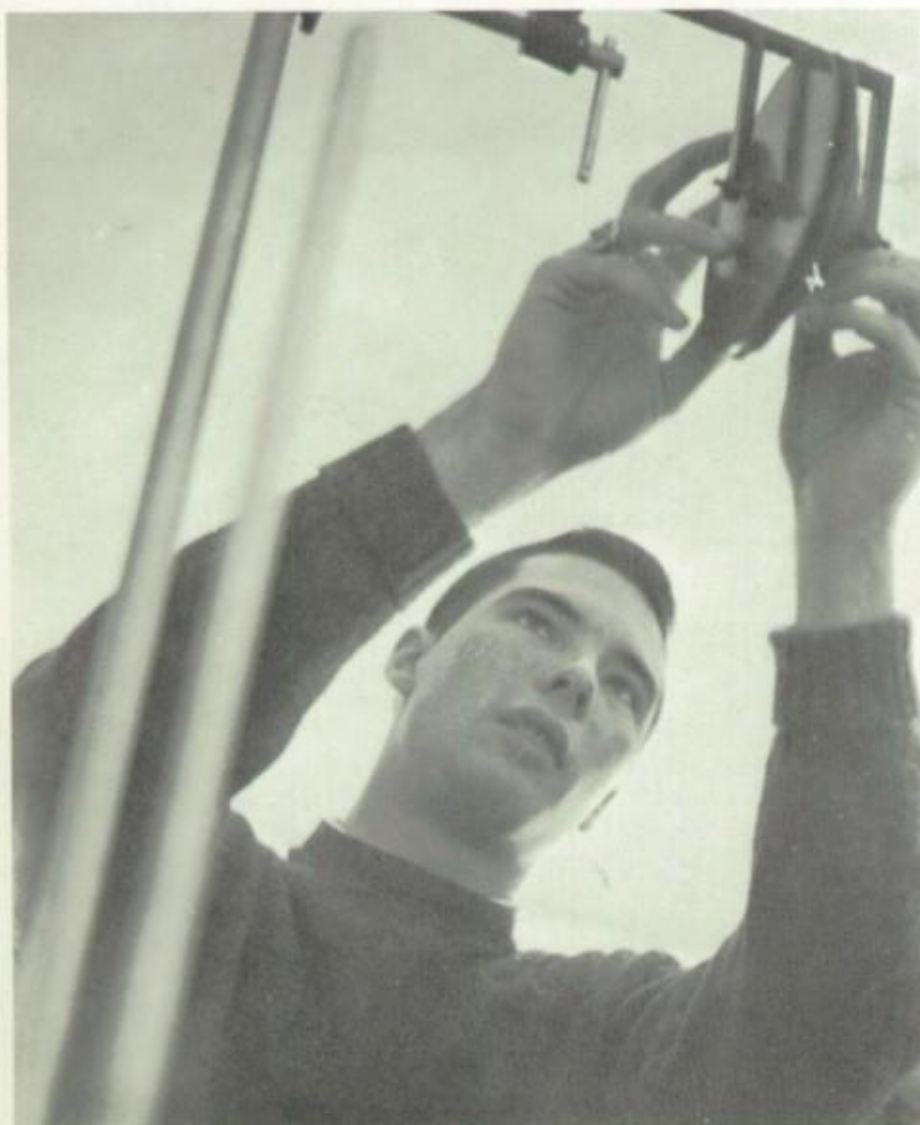

ABOVE: A FAMILIAR SCENE TO SOCIOLOGY CLASSES is a panel discussion in Mr. Johnson's room. Panels were usually tape recorded to be criticized later. Here Jacquie Garber, Tim Johnson, Kathy Arthur and Bill Peat give their points of view. Airbourne TV programs were often part of Mr. Johnson's social studies classes; and another familiar item, the quip for the day, appears on the blackboard: Advice to an aspiring young actor: "Go Western, young man."

PROPAGANDIST BEWARE!! Senior, Margaret Phillips explains the tools of propaganda in advertising.

Trends Emphasize Science and Math

Basic to a modern academic education is the study of mathematics, one year of which is required in high school.

A record enrollment of 175 freshmen elected first year algebra with its new and mysterious "x," while three classes studied general math. The strange geometrical shapes of the parallelogram, trapezoid and rhombus intrigued the sophomores, while the juniors studied advanced algebra with its more complicated equations, story problems, the binary system of numbers, imaginary numbers, permutations, and combinations. Two classes delved into Math IV or first year of college mathematics and strained their brain with advanced studies in solid geometry and trigonometry, including mathematical induction, complex numbers, identities, and an introduction to calculus.

Ambitious students looked forward to attending Summer Science and Math Training Programs at several colleges and universities such as Michigan State, Ohio State, and Western Michigan Universities where the sessions have been held in the past.

General science gave ninety-five freshmen a better understanding of the things around them. Learning the what, the how, and the why of science helped them adjust to changes in this Atomic Age. Movies and slides with class discussions and demonstrations enlightened intensified study in the chapters on water purification, magnetism, electricity, weather and climate, light, and the nature of sound.

"Strange things are happening" was the theme for the workings in the chemistry laboratory. Amid the sputtering bunsen burners and bubbling solutions, chemistry classes performed experiments with everyday applications. With two lab periods every week, the seventy-three students concentrated on several aspects of both inorganic and organic chemistry. Additional study spent on base and acid reactions resulted in the actual preparation of these compounds. Projects and research papers supplemented studies.

One class of courageous seniors delved into the laws governing our physical world and how matter behaves. With the aid of more student lab materials and electronic equipment such as an occiloscope, students worked not only with the basics of physics but with advanced experiments and theories necessary for this modern technological world. Chapters concerning mechanics, light, sound, and hydraulics proved most interesting to the students for outside projects.

CENTER: HAVING EARS, THEY HEAR a good bit about them in General Science class. Mr. Hatch checks Mike Armstrong's hearing on the audiometer. RIGHT: CAPACITY CLASSES CROWD CHEM LAB as juniors make a first-hand study of acids and bases.

Frequently the clattering of a cage or the squeaking of a hamster is heard from the biology room. Ninety percent of the sophomores enrolled in the complex study of life and soon were familiar with the odor of formaldehyde intermingled with that of wild greenery and white rats.

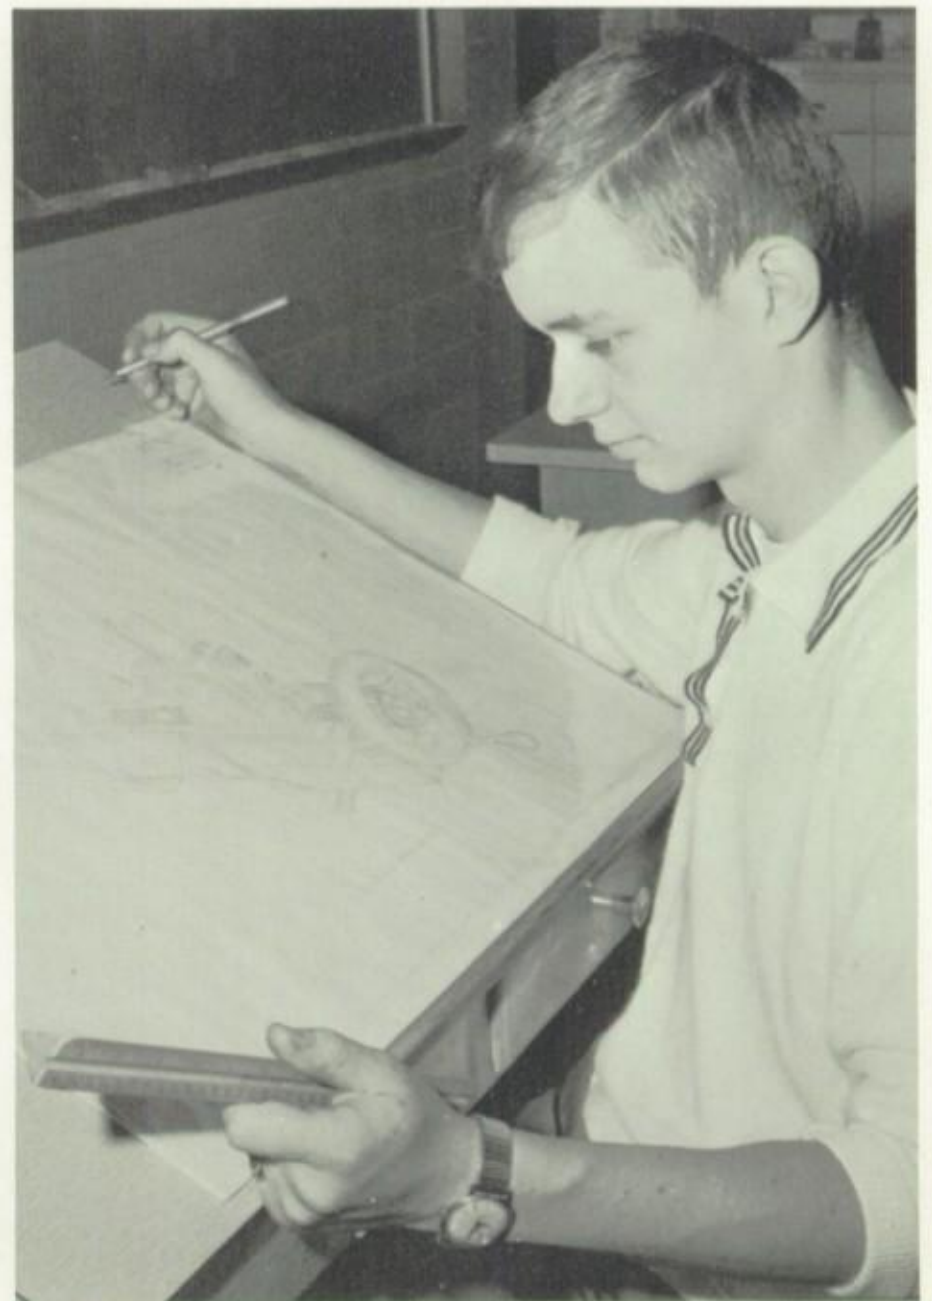

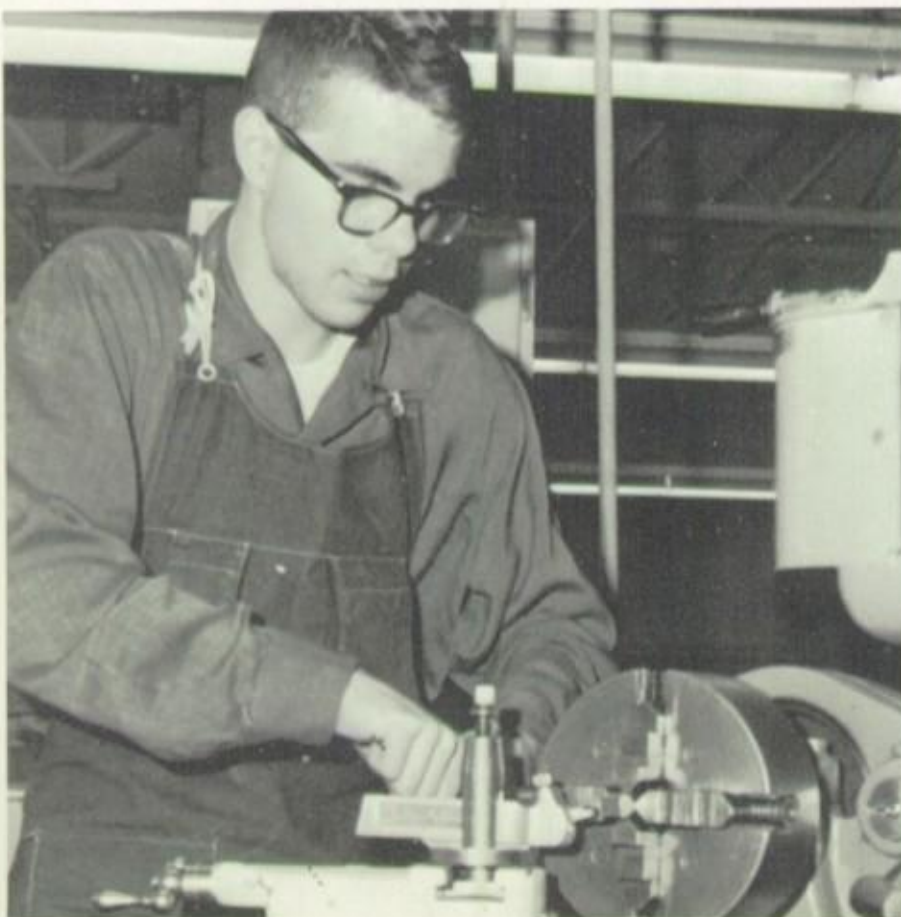

Detailed study in botany and zoology is made interesting by films, slides, dissections, and up-to-date equipment. An amazing majority of the students participated in early morning field trips to the conservation farm and Gull's Woods and two dates were scheduled for journeys to the Toledo Zoo. Ambitious students pursued specialized interests and prepared advanced projects for spring science competition.

Skills Build Careers in Industry

From drawing board to finishing rack our industrial arts students learned the technical skills needed to prepare them for future jobs in industry. Courses available this year included woodworking, automotive mechanics, mechanical drawing, printing, metals, and crafts — plastic, leather, and wrought iron. The familiar pink and blue slips, various posters, and tickets were all the work of the printing department. The climax of the year was the annual industrial arts exhibit held in the gymnasium on May 28-29.

Vo-Ag Training Makes Farm Leaders

Situated in a rural area, Bryan High School influences many farm families. The study of Vocational Agriculture is divided into two groups. Agriculture I & II is for freshmen and sophomores while Agriculture III & IV is for the juniors and seniors, with each class meeting for a double period.

Shopwork and classroom teaching are integrated during each semester with each group occupying first the classroom and then the shop. In the classroom the boys learn how to select and care for livestock, raise the feed for them, and have a cash-income crop. They also learn farm management, care and repair of machinery, soils, and many other items pertaining to profitable farming in our area. In shop they learn farm carpentry, machinery repair, welding, care and fitting of tools, and many other operations that are useful to any boy. The farm shop also builds items for various departments in school, such as benches for the annual, ping pong tables for the Student Council, hurdles for the athletic department, and other items of service to the school. This service gives the boys the experience and satisfaction of doing necessary work to the best of their ability.

Vocational Home Ec Opens Careers

Many rewarding experiences awaited our Home Economics students this year. As freshmen, they studied nutrition, meal planning, preparation of breakfast and lunch, clothing construction, machine operation, wardrobe planning, child development for babysitters, and dating manners. Sophomores practiced more advanced food serving and clothing construction, including the making of wool or corduroy suits with tips on tailoring, and interior decoration. Juniors learned more about nutrition, menus, cost of foods, home nursing and first aid, tailoring, textiles, and refinishing furniture. The senior course centered around preparation for marriage, with units on choosing a mate, engagements, trousseau planning, selection of china, silver and linens, wedding plans, child care, family finances, and planning and caring for a home. Style shows, faculty teas, home projects and field trips throughout the year helped to make learning a pleasure.

Business Training Insures Future

Our commercial department serves not only students who major in business practice but also many who wish to learn to manage their own business affairs more efficiently.

General Business, a course for freshmen, laid the foundation for future study. Students purchased stock, visited local stores and banks, attended a jury trial, and heard guest speakers on the Dun and Bradstreet Credit Rating, business machine operation, and the Bryan Chamber of Commerce.

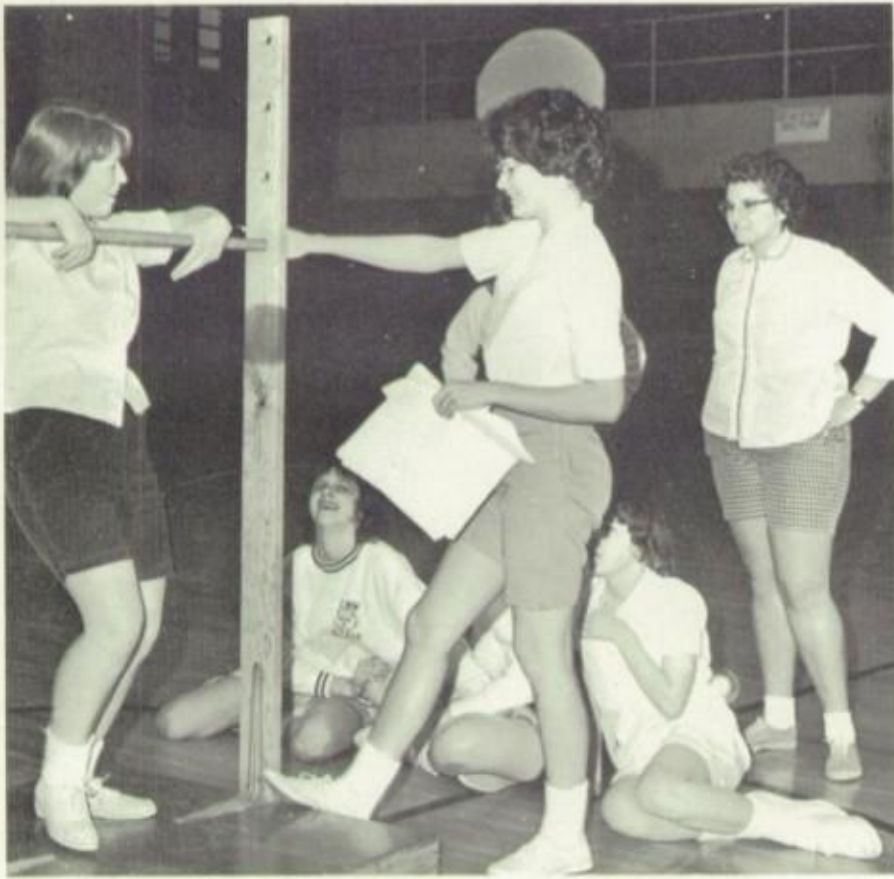

More than a hundred enrolled in typing, while commercial-major students went on to learn book-keeping, shorthand, business law, English and math, retail selling and office practice. Seniors served as secretaries to faculty members, and the department aided in placing many of its graduates in jobs before the end of the school year.

Physical Education

In accord with President Kennedy's program for physical fitness our bi-weekly physical education classes stressed body-building exercises. Health classes met once a week with hygiene and nutrition taught through individual reports and panel discussions.

Driver Training

Sixteen-year-olds enrolled in Driver Training used SPORTSMANLIKE DRIVING as a text. They spent 45 hours in class, 22½ observing and 7½ behind the wheel of a '62 Chevrolet. Special projects included reaction tests and observing traffic at street corners.

Art

A varied four-year program of Art study was available in three afternoon classes. Principles of design and work in papier mache, mosaics, clay, wire, and ceramics were among the projects for this year.

Tops in Achievement

With emphasis on achievement being increased in all departments, BHS is especially proud of the recognition our students earn in various fields of serious endeavor. Three of the group at the right, Dennis Stombaugh, Bunny Andres and Davye Howey, also received Letters of Commendation on their National Merit tests. Dennis was All-League Honorable mention in basketball, and Penny was on the 1961 All-State cast at the OSU Drama Festival. Many Science Fair winners went on to enter other fairs in late spring.

Queen Wendy Graces the Gridiron

MARCIA HUNTLEY, SOPHOMORE QUEEN WENDY WILLIAMS ANN HALL, SENIOR

Brisk fall winds set the atmosphere for the traditional Homecoming festivities on October 20. Dazzling new convertibles driven by escorts Joe Imm, Walter Husted, Gary Witte, Denny Stombaugh and Dennis Myers ushered in Queen Wendy and her court before a stadium of spirited rooters. Queen Wendy's fateful toss of the coin favored Bryan and we chose to receive. Co-captains Gerry Ames and Steve Moore received an extra "little bit of luck" with a kiss from the queen and set a determined pace for the fast-moving game. Montpelier and Bryan gridiron battles always turn chills into thrills and this was no exception, though it was a losing fight for Bryan. With Mr. Dally as emcee, the band entertained at half-time with a special fire baton routine and, as a tribute to the queen and her court, a "Miss America" show. Queen Wendy summed up the feelings of both alumni and the student body by concluding her speech with the following poem:

While games are lost and games are won,
The fun is shared by everyone;
Good sportsmanship will always be
The emblem of a victory.
So if we win or lose this game
We'll love our Bryan Bears the same.

Tops in Charm and Personality

Y-Teens Favor Nancy Fenton

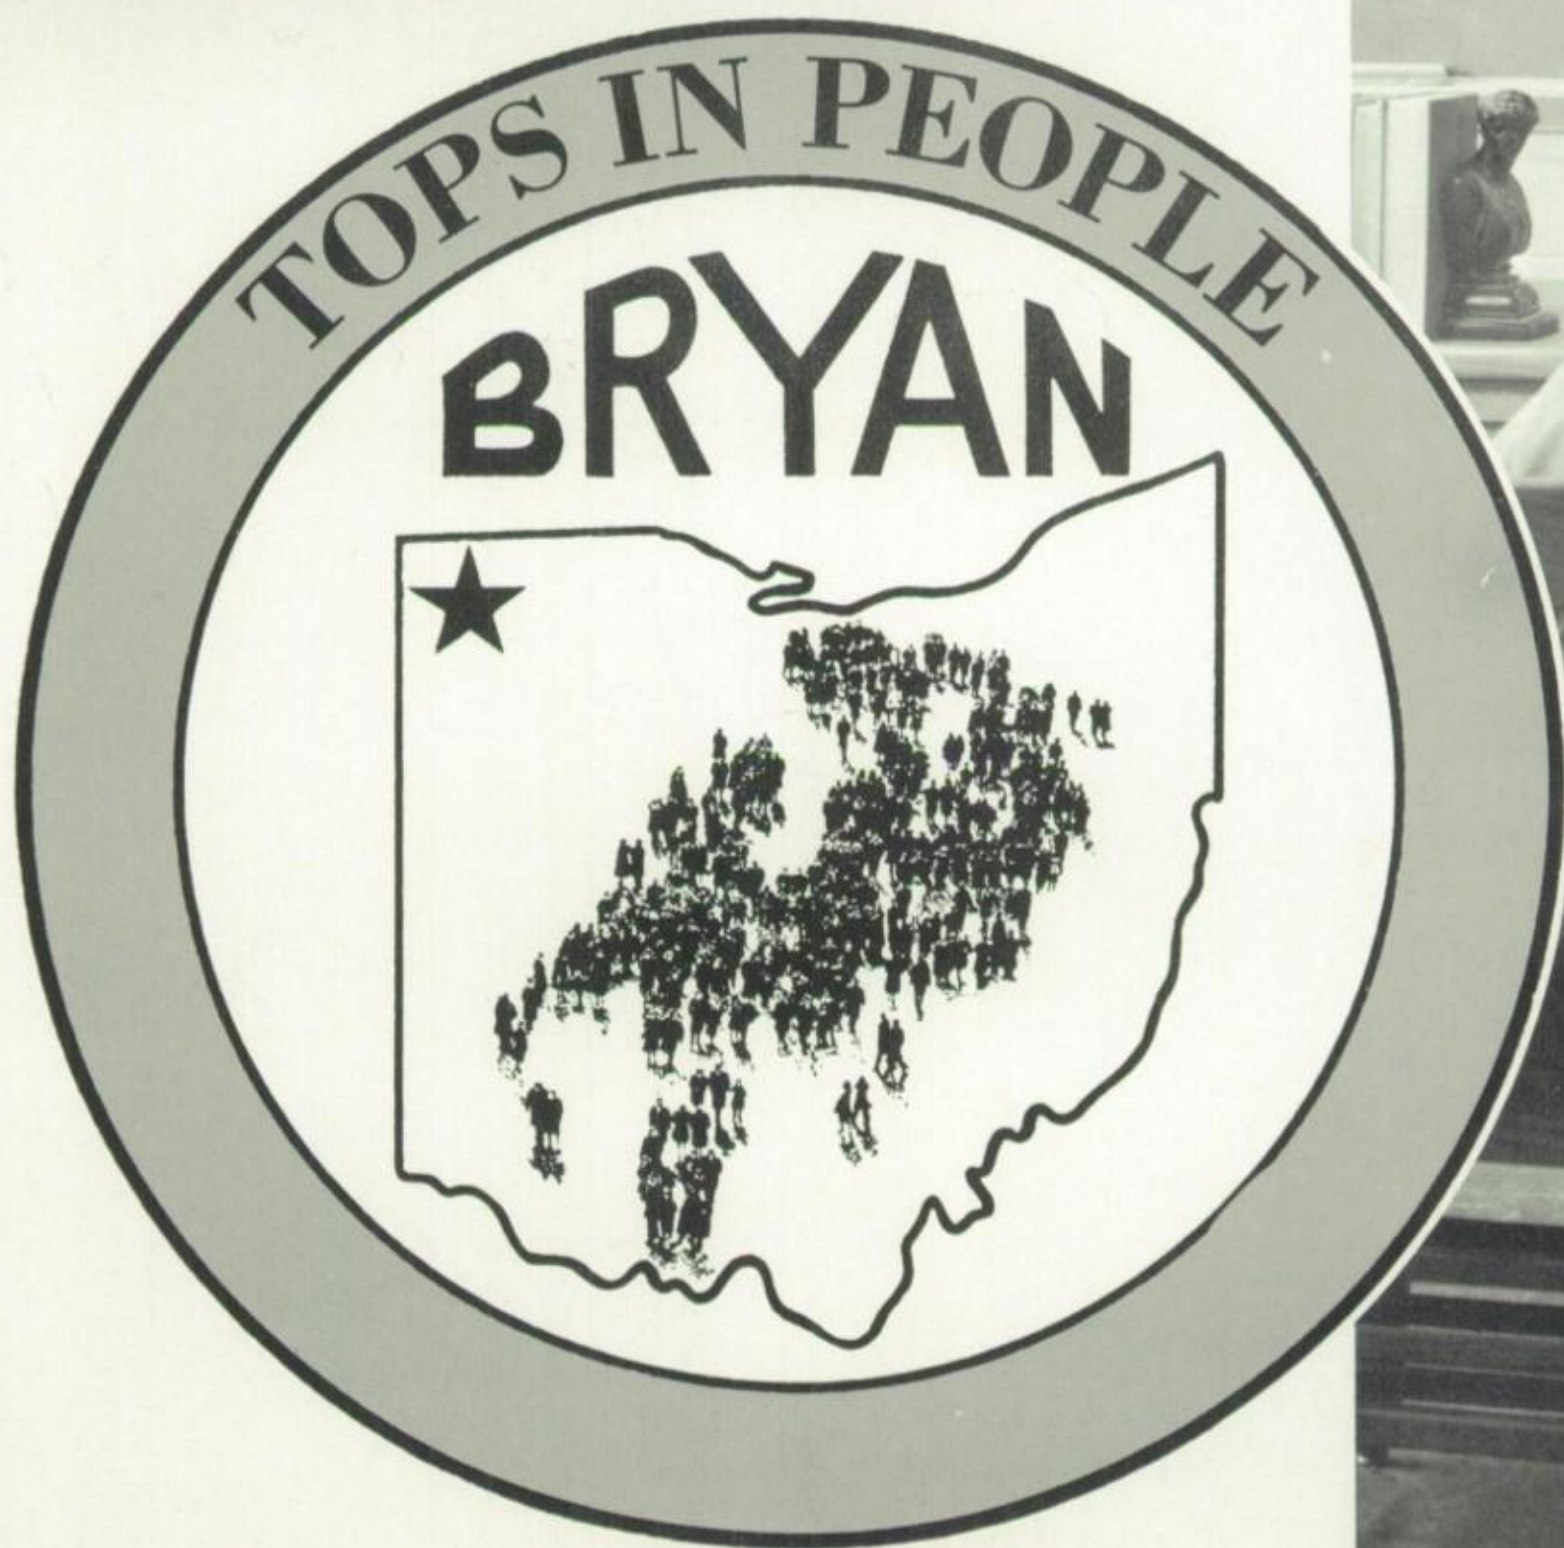

A record number of candidates qualified for Y-Teens' highest honor — the right to wear the Claire Newcomer pin during the senior year. Eligible juniors had a "B" average in scholarship, had participated in music or dramatics, and had held an elective office. Among the fifteen on the ballot, Y-Teeners chose Nancy Fenton to receive the pin from last year's winner, Carol Luderman. Nancy, a granddaughter of the Claire Newcomer for whom the award is named, learned of the honor at the annual Mother-Daughter banquet, May. 2

Trackmen Elect Penny Graham

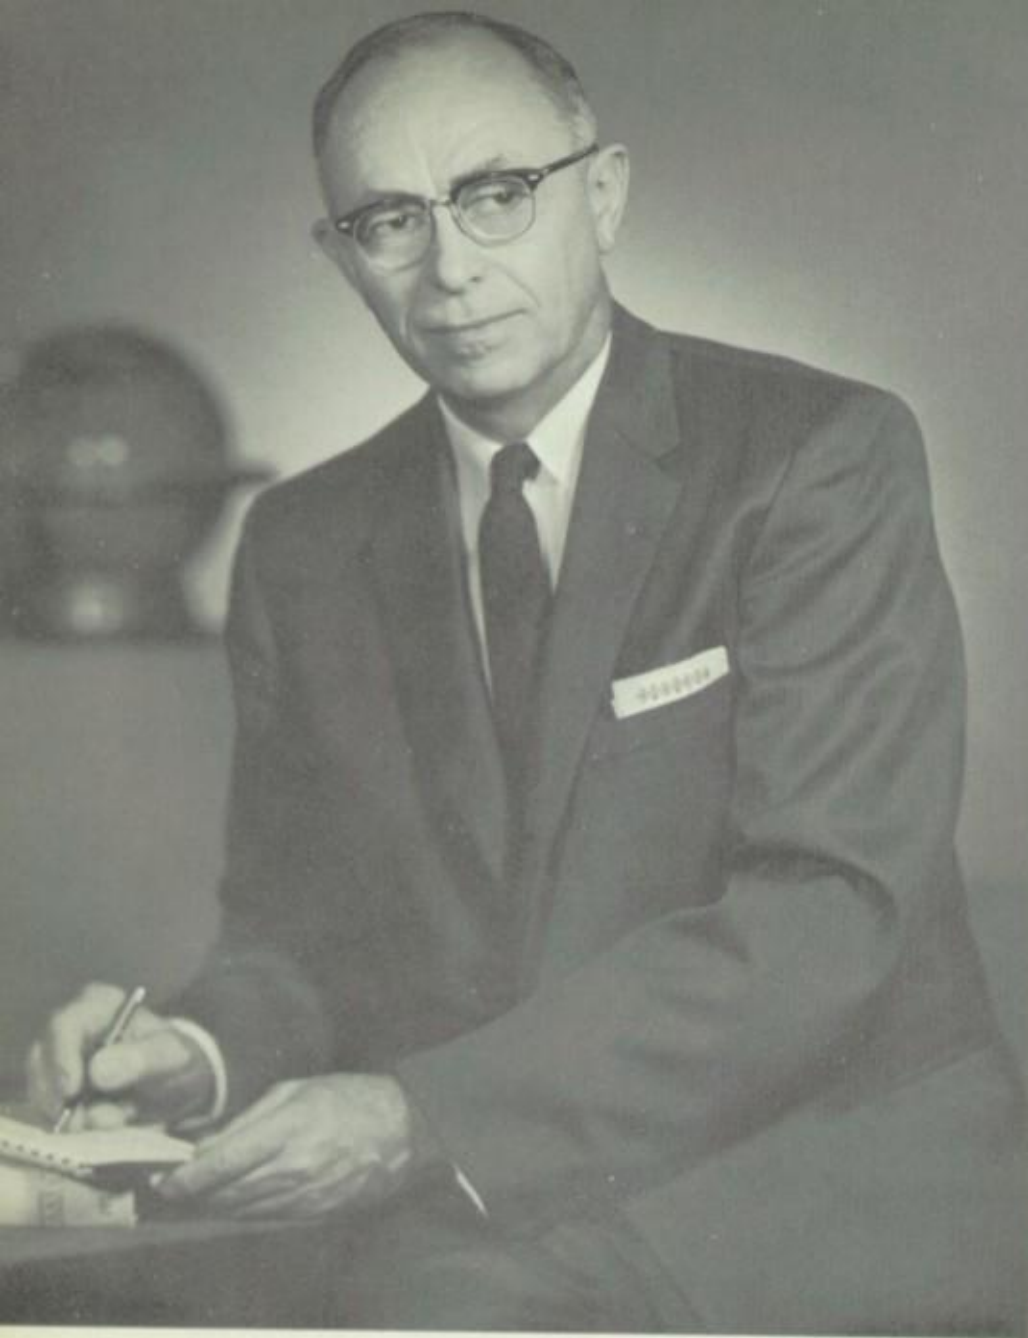

Diminutive brunette Penny Graham was the choice of Bryan's cindermen to reign over 1962 track activities. She graciously awarded the laurels to the winners at the mid-May League meet, her vivacious school spirit inspiring their best efforts.

PENNY GRAHAM, TRACK QUEEN

Frequent after-school get-togethers, like this one in Miss Max's room, are typical of the friendly relationship between faculty and students. This congenial atmosphere is conducive to study and makes school life even more enjoyable.

H. W. ROGGE, SUPERINTENDENT

Administration

Preparing today for tomorrow's problems has been Superintendent Howard Rogge's philosophy throughout his nineteen years as a Bryan school administrator.

Studies of Bryan's growth have guided his recommendations to the Board of Education, so that facilities are available when and where they are needed. An additional three-mill levy in November brought our school millage to 22.5 and helped replace the state funds lost because of rising property valuation. At present a ten-year schedule of pay-as-you-go improvements is under consideration. Mr. Rogge has also taken advantage of National Defense Education Act funds, matching local expenditures for improved science equipment. He attended Bowling Green, Ohio Northern, and Ohio State universities and holds B.S. and M.A. degrees.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary as clerk of the Board of Education, Russell Mignery has attended six hundred meetings, written thousands of checks, and contributed much to Bryan young people. We hope that the continued progress of Bryan schools will repay him for his time and effort.

Terms expired this year for three other Board members. Ted Spangler and Carl Miller were not candidates for re-election. President of the Board, Arthur Spletzer, Jr., retained his membership. Newly-elected members were Dr. Paul Waid and attorney John Dwyer.

FEROEN BETTS, CARL MILLER, RUSSELL MIGNERY, H. W. ROGGE, TED SPANGLER, ROBERT LOWE, ARTHUR SPLETZER, JR.

Sets High Goals for Bryan Schools

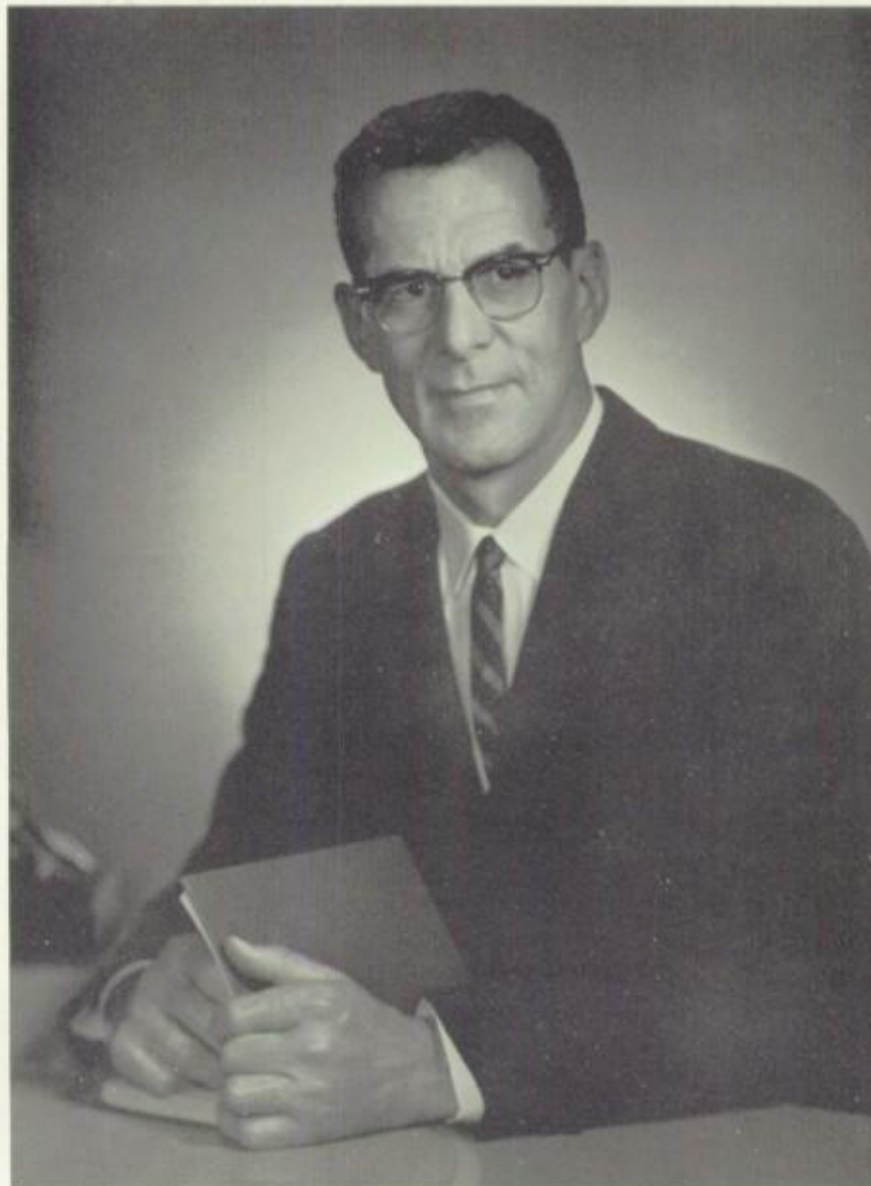

Guidance, information and answers to personal problems are daily routine for Mr. Joseph S. Newell, principal for the past seven years. His interest in each student and willingness to help have proved to all of us that he is an educator in the truest sense.

He holds his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Kalamazoo College and the University of Michigan. He regularly attends state and national professional meetings to keep Bryan in accord with foremost educational practices. He administers an impressive testing program to help guide us in our choice of occupations and further training. These tests include the National Merit Scholarship, Terman-Macnamar, Ohio State Psychological, American Testing program, and Scholarship Qualifying Tests.

Over-all better scholarship, including a well-coordinated four-year English program and better school spirit were among his goals for this year.

SECRETARIAL STAFF

The daily office details are capably handled by Mrs. Richard Ihrig, Mr. Newell's secretary, and Mrs. Roger Ames, Mr. Rogge's secretary. Mrs. Richard Myers is in the office two hours and at the cashier's desk in the cafeteria another two hours each day. Sandra Bany, a BHS graduate of 1960, replaced Mrs. Ihrig who resigned in mid-winter.

Good Teachers Make Good Schools

That Bryan students are eager to participate in organizations and projects is due to the attractive and personable atmosphere our faculty have developed.

We are proud of their academic excellence. More than half have graduate degrees and several have gained widespread professional recognition. All Bryan teachers are members of the National Education Association as well as of state and local organizations. Bryan was host on Oct. 5 to a regional drive-in conference on instruction. A plan for recognizing years of teaching service was developed this year, and the group pledged one thousand dollars, in three yearly installments, to the new children's wing of the Public Library.

Three social occasions highlight the faculty year. In the fall the Board of Education and all school employees entertain the newcomers; at Christmas the teachers enjoy a dinner party; and in June a breakfast brings the year to a pleasant close.

School Services Are Their Sphere

TEMPTING TRAYS have been prepared by Lucy Struble, Delena Salsbury, Leola Ebersole and Helen Vernier.

HELEN SETTLES

In planning our daily menus, Mrs. Leonard Carr, head dietitian for Bryan Schools carries on an educational program in "Type A" nutrition. Serving the High School and Junior High we have Mrs. Warren Struble as cafeteria head, assisted by Mrs. Cleland Salsbury, Mrs. Dudley Ebersole, and Mrs. Durell Vernier. Lunches at thirty-five cents with "seconds" for a few pennies more give us a balanced 900 calories.

Mrs. Carr, shown at right, is the regional director of the Ohio School Food Service Association. She is celebrating her tenth anniversary as our dietitian.

SCHOOL AND CITY NURSE

Mrs. Walter Settles, our friendly and sympathetic nurse, is a graduate of Western Pennsylvania. All students who return after an illness report to her office before going to classes. She visits each school daily and each year she conducts an ear, eye and dental clinic, pre-school examinations, and fifth grade physicals. In her capacity as City Nurse she makes home calls, gives some types of inoculations and conducts a children's clothing exchange. The P.T.O. keeps her supplied with medicines and linens.

CUSTODIANS AND MATRONS

Delber Long, head custodian, and his assistants, Ralph Perry and Don "Skip" Krill, are skilled craftsmen and electricians who keep our building and equipment in good condition. The matrons, Mrs. Kathryn McFadden and Mrs. Charlotte Weaver, report in the afternoons to give our rooms a special polish. During the summer, the custodians from all four schools work as a team to paint and repair school properties. They did much to improve the appearance of the high school grounds this year by planting the shrubbery given by the class of 1960.

BUS DRIVERS

Our eight bus drivers are safety trained and take great care for their passengers. They are our chauffeurs on many excursions as well as daily trips to and from school. Wilmer Schartzter is the senior member of the group with fourteen years' experience. Rex Shook, shown above, has been bus custodian for the past eight years.

PRE-SCHOOL PLANNING and charting of routes brings bus drivers to a meeting in the Board of Education room. Harold Brown, Howard Robinson, Wilson Shetler, John Williamson, Wilmer

Seniors Cherish Memories of BHS

Looking back over the past four years, the senior class can recount many memorable progressions — ballroom dancing to the Junior-Senior Prom; friendship rings to class rings; Caesar to Chaucer; and shy, inexperienced freshmen to students who have to make important decisions daily. Many students have moved to and from Bryan, but the class of 1962 has always remained close-knit in all their associations and activities.

A basketball concession, dance and bake sale were projects necessary to finance commencement expenses. More than half the class prepared to enter college and

The senior play, ONLY AN ORPHAN GIRL, a hilarious revival of Gay '90's melodrama, was both a financial and an entertainment success.

Surviving the usual attack of "Senioritis," the graduates found June first a climax of the traditional activities — early final exams, senior picnic at Pokagon, farewell luncheon in the cafeteria, and the donning of navy and white robes.

Looking ahead, most of the boys had already filled out draft papers, many of the classmates had promises of jobs in Bryan offices or business, and over half were headed for colleges or other institutions of further training.

FILLING OUT BLANKS is a universal senior pastime as students apply for college entrance and jobs. Fred Lamont, Joanna Gorin, and Wes Sabins check over Ohio State requirements.

At the midpoint of our Senior year the tragic and sudden death of our classmate, David R. Thomas, deeply saddened the whole community.

He was an outstanding person, exceptionally talented in music, and active in civic and school affairs.

As a token of high regard, many friends contributed to the David R. Thomas Memorial Fund which was used for the purchase of orchestra chimes and celeste. We have suffered a great loss and David's memory will be treasured in our hearts forever.

Class of 1963 Emerge As Leaders

Symbolizing the juniors' growing authority as upper-classmen were the class rings which arrived near the beginning of school. They kept their scholastic rating on a high level because of this year's greater demands of National Honor Society on juniors, but even while studying hard, they took part in the many extra-curricular activities offered them. With pride and enthusiasm the juniors presented the homecoming queen and her court with a festive evening by sponsoring the dance after the game. Selling the traditional mums at homecoming and Christmas cards during the fall also added to their enjoyment of being upperclassmen.

As the year went on, all Junior attention focused on May 11, the date of the Junior-Senior banquet and prom. Careful, long-range planning and hours of hard work combined to make the evening a real "spectacular."

JOVIAL JUNIORS TWISTING IN THE RAIN continue an after-game dance in the parking lot.

Teens in '62. . .

by Karen Engstrom

In this fast-moving teen world we felt ourselves whizzing into life on a path of adventure, new experiences, and social activities. We managed to turn every after-game dance and private get-together into a Twist party. This new dance kept us "wound" up for hours and sent us to bed with aching vertebrae. Spring fashions featured big changes in blouses. Styles influenced by TV idols Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare gave us a medical look, while "Twist" or "Dear Liz" blouses were hip length and much beruffled. We went all-out for pizza, garlic bread, French-fried onion rings, and spaghetti. We carried horoscope books with us to classes and the Senior girls took up knitting during the noon hour. The neatest records of the year were "Let There Be Drums." "Exodus," and "Moon River." Only the best themes could be written with flower-topped, scented-ink ball point pens, and contact lenses were a "must" to bespectacled students. Shorty skirts, knee socks, tennis shoes, and large purses for the girls; crew and boatneck sweaters, jaeger jackets, and corduroy suits for the boys were still very much "in" this year. Everyone owned a trench coat or a bench-warmer coat. Everyone collected sweat shirts from the colleges he visited or expected to attend. The short pixie and long bobbing ponytail went "out" to make way for the ratted, or backcombed, poufy hairdo. In our more serious moments we worried about and debated such problems as segregation, politics, smoking, our future and getting into college.

Class of 1964 Enjoy Activities

Responsibility for earning money and saving it for future needs dominated sophomore activities. Dances, concessions, and bake sales helped to fill their coffers while their energy, enthusiasm, and spirit added a sparkle to the student body. With responsibilities came eligibility for Y-Teens, Hi-Y, Mask and Sandal and other special interest organizations. They were rewarded by an increasing feeling of belonging and being "in the swing" of things. They took great pride in selecting class rings of an especially attractive and modern design. No longer "greenhorns," the sophomores now began working toward goals. Some hoped to qualify for National Honor Society; some took specialized training in industrial and commercial courses, and others aimed for distinction in activities.

FOOD, FUN, AND SOPHOMORES go together at a money-raising bake sale. Norman Gilbert helps out as sandwich man.

Class of 1965 Tops Enrollment

The fast-moving high school world found freshmen eager to investigate and learn. Eligibility for membership in FFA, FHA, FTA, GAA, Cheer Block, Latin and Spanish Clubs ushered in a whirlwind of new and different social activities. Humorous club initiations were fun for old members as well as new, and gave the freshmen a sense of belonging. The Student Council sponsored the Kick-Off Dance in honor of the freshmen. Free admittance for frosh and perky green and white flags added to the evening's fun. Of primary concern was a stronger emphasis on specialized curricula to prepare the students now for higher education or their desired vocation after graduation. As the largest class in Bryan's history, the 250 freshmen were unique.

Participation in Bryan's extra-curricular clubs and activities is not only a pleasant relaxation from school routine. Through them we gain significant experiences. We develop special skills; we meet interesting people; we perform services to the community; we take part in state and national meetings. The group shown here are student journalists in the world's largest hotel studying an exhibit of All-American yearbooks at the National Scholastic Press conference in Chicago.

Williams, Kathy Arthur, Francie Allen, Sue Oberlin, Beth Newell, Tom Sprow, Dennis Stombaugh, Nance Lirot.

Students Have Energetic Council

Throughout the year Student Council maintained the leadership that the students of Bryan High School assigned to them. They started their busy year by acting as guides to incoming freshmen, sponsoring the Kick-off Dance, and holding an open meeting in the gym to demonstrate to the student body how they decide issues. Other activities included arranging the Homecoming festivities, taking charge of the elections, decorations, and the ceremony; holding class officer elections; and planning the Christmas and Easter Convocations. The Student Council also sponsored entertaining assemblies, the General Scholarship Test, and the locker clean-up. Two new purchases were the pop dispenser and the popcorn machine, which aided them at the concession stand during the County and Class AA Tournaments. At home basketball games, enthusiastic members popped and sold hot popcorn to hungry rooters. During the noon hour they sold candy to fill the sweet tooth of hungry BHS'ers.

This year Student Council put the new National Honor Society into affect, revised their Constitution, and gave a plaque to the school that showed a list of class gifts.

GIRLS' STATE and BOYS' STATE DELEGATES: Susan Knecht, Wendy Williams, Fred Lamont, Chuck Opdycke, Walter Husted, Penny

Graham. These delegates are considered honorary members of the Student Council.

Honor Society Has High Standards

New standards for the National Honor Society, set up by the Student Council and the faculty, were put into effect this year. Scholastically, juniors wishing to qualify for membership had to have a 3.5 semester average, while the seniors had to have a 3.2 semester average. From the list of students scholastically eligible, the faculty then selected those who were also outstanding in character, leadership, and service to the school. This procedure was the result of a two-year survey conducted by the Student Council and a faculty committee of which Mr. Webster was chairman. The students pictured below are seniors only; the junior membership list was not available at the time the picture was taken.

Best Annual Is Goal of '62 Staff

TOP: PLANNING SESSION involves Mrs. Robrock, adviser, and co-editors Penny Graham and Fred Lamont. CENTER: SPORT IS A SERIOUS AFFAIR for sports editors Denis Stombaugh and Gary Witte.

Determined to make the 1962 ZETA CORDIA worthy to rank among its All-American predecessors, the staff added eight pages, including double division spreads and more space in the academic section. Co-editor Fred Lamont, Business Manager Beth Brown, and Annette DeBevec attended the yearbook summer workshop at Indiana University.

Homeground for editorial work was every Monday night at the country home of adviser, Mrs. Robrock. Fortified with potato chips and onion dip, work was concentrated to meet a deadline on either the first or fifteenth of every month from October through March. The staff observed Open House on October thirtieth by redecorating the staff room.

Experiences in yearbook work carried staff members and adviser to a spot on the program of the NSPA convention in Chicago, November 25. Mrs. Robrock lectured on "Good Yearbook Copy" and later moderated a panel discussion consisting of Co-editors Penny Graham and Fred Lamont, Business Manager Beth Brown, and staff member Karin Engstrom on "The Human Side of the Yearbook Staff."

ZETA CORDIA BUSINESS STAFF INCREASES SALES

Under contract for 1000 yearbooks, the business staff sold personalized copies at four dollars before Christmas and later orders at four fifty.

Advised by Mr. Johnson, the ambitious staff, sponsored the traditional Christmas dance, managed the coat check for basketball games, and filled the patron pages with the names of contributing business men. The state discontinued revenue from sales tax stamps, but the ever-popular schedule pencils and plastic book covers sold well.

The business staff supervised the distribution of the yearbooks late in May and financed the Victory party for the 1962-63 staffs.

Hi-Life Keeps Students Informed

In all of their thirty-five years of publishing, Hi-Life has been keeping students and parents informed on the happenings around the school. This year they put out fifteen issues which varied from four to eight pages and were filled with factual stories, thought-provoking editorials, and interesting columns.

Work begins early to put out a good paper and this year was no exception. Susan Knecht, the first semester editor, and Wendy Williams, the business manager, went to Indiana University, and eight members of the staff traveled to Ohio University, where they attended classes in journalism. With this initial knowledge they put out a six-page issue the first day of school.

Using a page-editor system of organization, Hi-Life's six pages were put in charge of individual students. Carol Luderman, head page editor, also had charge of the front page. Karin Engstrom was editor of page two and Gwen Schad of page three. Sara Brown and Nance Lirot shared responsibility for page four while Dave Howey and Chuck Opdycke edited page five, the sports section. Kay Dietiker, editor for page six also was responsible for arranging for the photography.

During the journalism classroom period, which is taught by Mr. LeMaster, the students used a new textbook, NEWS IN PRINT, to acquaint themselves with the finer points of journalistic writing.

EDITORIAL CONFERENCE. SEATED: Nance Lirot, Gwen Schad, Karin Engstrom, Sara Brown, Carol Luderman. STANDING: Susan Knecht, Kay Dietiker, Dave Howey, Chuck Opdycke.

Keeping the books balanced was the main job of the business staff of the Hi-Life. They raised money in various ways including soliciting from the patrons, selling papers, and sponsoring the dance and concessions after the Wauseon basketball game. It was their job to count the money from sales, bank it, and make sure that the patrons received their papers. They also took charge of the subscriptions and sent papers to exchange schools and alumni.

Y-Teens Have Fun and Fellowship

With leadership and character as goals, our 127 Y-Teen members launched a busy and useful year.

Delegates Penny Graham and Carol Luderman took the United Nations Study Tour and reported their experiences to the club at the World Fellowship Supper.

Mrs. Paul Hughes was the inspiring speaker at the beautiful induction ceremony held at the Methodist Church. Other special events were the annual Hi-Y — Y-Teen hunt which ended in a draw, the March 14 pay-off supper; the joint Christmas party; Mrs. Neuby's talk on "Christian Resolutions" ushering in the New Year; the movie "One God"; a program by the Claire Newcomer Dancing Club; and the Mother-Daughter Awards Banquet.

Money projects included a bake sale, dance, concessions, and the sale of mint candy. Diligent selling of mints won Vicky Hook and Carol Luderman a watch and pen-and-pencil set respectively. The Community Chest also contributed to the treasury. Thanksgiving baskets were distributed; Christmas packages were collected; and an Easter convocation was arranged.

Hi-Y Interested in Legislation

With Rev. Smith Rose as a new adviser and Mr. Masten returning after two years' absence, Hi-Y began the year's activities with the induction of new members at Trinity Lutheran Church. Regular meetings were held bi-monthly. Attorney Gibson Fenton and Representative Robert Winzeler were outstanding speakers, and the entire club worked on legislative committees in preparation for Model Legislature. Walter Husted, Jeff Showalter and Tom Johnston attended Pre-Model Legislature at Heidelberg College, Walter and Jeff going on to the Model Legislature in Columbus. Other outstanding activities were the Christmas party and tree pick-up, the Hi-Y — Y-Teen hunt and pay-off supper.

Super salesmanship brought record returns on the sale of 550 pounds of salt water taffy. With their own funds and a twenty-dollar contribution from the Community Chest the club defrayed expenses and planned to send next year's officers to Camp Nelson Dodd for summer training.

FTA Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

IT RATTLES! Gloria Hitt and Gwen Schad anticipate opening comical gifts at FTA annual Christmas party.

During its tenth year, FTA became Bryan's largest club with boy and girl membership. An extraordinary fact is that the club is still under the guidance of the charter sponsors, Mr. Webster and Mr. Johnson. The local chapter also has the highest male membership in the state.

From the annual wiener roast in the fall through the picnic at Pokagon in June, FTA'ers enjoyed their meetings and gained valuable information from them. Mr. Patterson and Mrs. Rogge gave interesting talks with sidelights from their own experiences, and movies of different universities were shown to guide the members in making their own choice of higher education.

On October 27 three members went with the sponsors to the Northwest Ohio Teachers' Meeting in Toledo, where Mr. Webster and Rose Marie Fahringer took part in a panel discussion of club activities and promotion methods. Several others attended the state convention on October 28, where they heard methods of teaching the handicapped discussed.

Sales from pennants, decals and combs added to the club treasury. Pins were awarded to members earning enough points. The awarding of the Walter Robrock Memorial Scholarship to a deserving senior ended another year of service to Bryan High.

FFA Active in Practical Projects

IN THE WINNERS' CIRCLE, Roy Rigg and his County Fair Grand Champions. Roy was a consistent winner of quality and showmanship awards at both the County and the State Fair.

Leadership in rural affairs, always a prime goal of Future Farmers, went forward this year under the guidance of Mr. Bowen, teaching his first year in Bryan.

The club earned a silver medal in the Parliamentary Procedure contest, prepared a County Fair exhibit, initiated their Green Hands, advanced their Chapter Farmers, sold seeds and cider, candy and tractor seats, and took part in the annual county-wide pest hunt. They launched a corn-picker safety campaign, entered local and county public speaking contests, studied land and livestock judging, and entertained their parents at a banquet in April. On this occasion Sharon Ebaugh was crowned Queen and presented with a white FFA jacket.

Future Homemakers Explore Careers

With Miss Puhl at the head, FHA developed its theme for the year — Launching Our Career. The seventy members enjoyed, besides the traditional initiation and Mother-Daughter banquet, a hayride and wiener roast, Christmas luau, puppet show, Valentine Hop, and a senior farewell. A guest speaker, Mrs. Louis Hitt, spoke on teenage life in her home town in Germany. Noon bake sales and basketball concessions provided the club's income, while gifts to "Friends in Lebanon" and UNESCO, and favors for hospital trays spiritually aided the girls.

Language Clubs Enrich Studies

Latin Club, advised by Miss Max and Mrs. Mellott, presented programs that gave a picture of the "grandeur that was Rome." In the fall, Miss Max compared present methods of club elections to those of the Romans. In November, Mrs. William Urfer's explanation of making ancient theater masks encouraged many students to make masks for class projects. Mrs. Grace Carr reviewed Seton's MISTLETOE AND THE SWORD before Christmas and later sophomores added amusement to the program by presenting a satire on "The Labors of Hercules." For viewing pleasure the club sponsored the movies "Ulysses," and "Demetrius and the Gladiator," and slides on Roman games and amusement. Climaxing the year on April 25 was the annual Roman banquet with authentic food and dress.

Seventy-two Spanish students united in Club Espanol with Mr. Patterson as adviser to become more at ease with language of Spain and its customs. Meeting once a month, they began the year by revising their constitution. Later meetings included three one-act plays prepared and presented by students in costume. In November the club was invited to meet with the Stryker High School Spanish Club. They were greeted by Stryker officers dressed in Spanish costumes, sang patriotic songs in Spanish, and enjoyed Spanish games and food. Later Bryan returned the invitation. A pinata party in February and a March Festival were followed by a banquet in April at which certificates and pins were awarded.

Susie Smith and Richard Rutz won special awards for superior work in supporting roles. Penny Graham was named in the Class A All-State cast for her work in PINK AND PATCHES.

Student participation was the keynote of Mask and Sandal meetings as members presented skits and pantomimes. The production of THE MADWOMAN OF CHAILLOT by Jean Giraudoux on November 17-18 gave acting experience to twenty-two members while a large stage crew created a gay Parisian scene.

Later the students staged a story-book character make-up contest, and produced a one-act play for various Mother and Daughter Banquets. Bryan's entry in the District Drama Festival at Bowling Green was THE OLD LADY SHOWS HER MEDALS by Barrie.

In the summer some of the members planned to attend the biennial National Thespian Conference at Indiana University.

Thespians Produce "The Madwoman"

ABOVE: "IS HE DEAD, MARTIAL?" asks Irma (Beth Brown) as the group at the Chez Francis gathers around Pierre (Ron Rupp). Others concerned are the Madwoman (Penny Graham), the Waiter (Mike Newcomb), and the Prospector (Doug Powell). RIGHT: "I LOVE YOU!" Irma recalls tender moments as she fondles Pierre's beret.

Drawing the audience gradually away from reality into the realm of the impossible, student actors presented THE MADWOMAN OF CHAILLOT. Jean Giraudoux's fantastic parable shows his respect for feminine power, his love for humanity and his belief in the ability of "little people" to triumph over disaster.

Stage manager, Mike Hoffman, and scene designer, Beverly Creglow, made and painted a new backdrop which simplified the staging of the two settings. New-trouperette lights, operated by Frank Heyman, Tom Sprow, and Jon Bricker, greatly accented production effects.

Veteran actors gave mature portrayal while novices in dramatics gained valuable experience from a play of such high calibre.

"THE OLD LADY SHOWS HER MEDALS"

Mask and Sandal selected Barrie's famous World War I play for its entry in the Bowling Green District Drama Festival March 31. A tender story of a London charwoman who pretended she had a son fighting in France, only to have the "son" materialize, the play demands sincere acting and authentic dialect. Vicki Biddle was added to the cast to read between the three scenes. Kathy Salzman was student director with Emily Vannorsdall assisting. Rev. and Mrs. George McGraw gave valuable aid on the Scottish accent.

SENIORS PRESENT "ONLY AN ORPHAN GIRL"

A melodrama in the gayest of Gay '90's tradition was produced by the senior class on April 13-14. Complete with dastardly villain (curse him!) a beautiful heroine, a handsome hero, a city siren, and kindly country folk, the story follows the orphan Nellie, who does not know that she is heiress to a million dollars, from one crisis to another. The audience joined in community singing led by "Mitch" Lamont and the barbershop quartette between acts, while stage manager Bill Peat and his assistants set the stage for the five scenes required to snatch Nellie from a fate worse than death. Mrs. Rob-rock directed, assisted by Anita Pence. Susan DeGroff was business manager with Mr. Johnson as adviser.

GAA Production Is "Pink Fantasie"

OF THE THREE GAA intramural sports, volleyball attracted the most participants. Games were usually held in the gym in Central Building three days a week after school with Miss Maneval and Miss Opdycke as referees. GAA points accumulated for each member according to her activities.

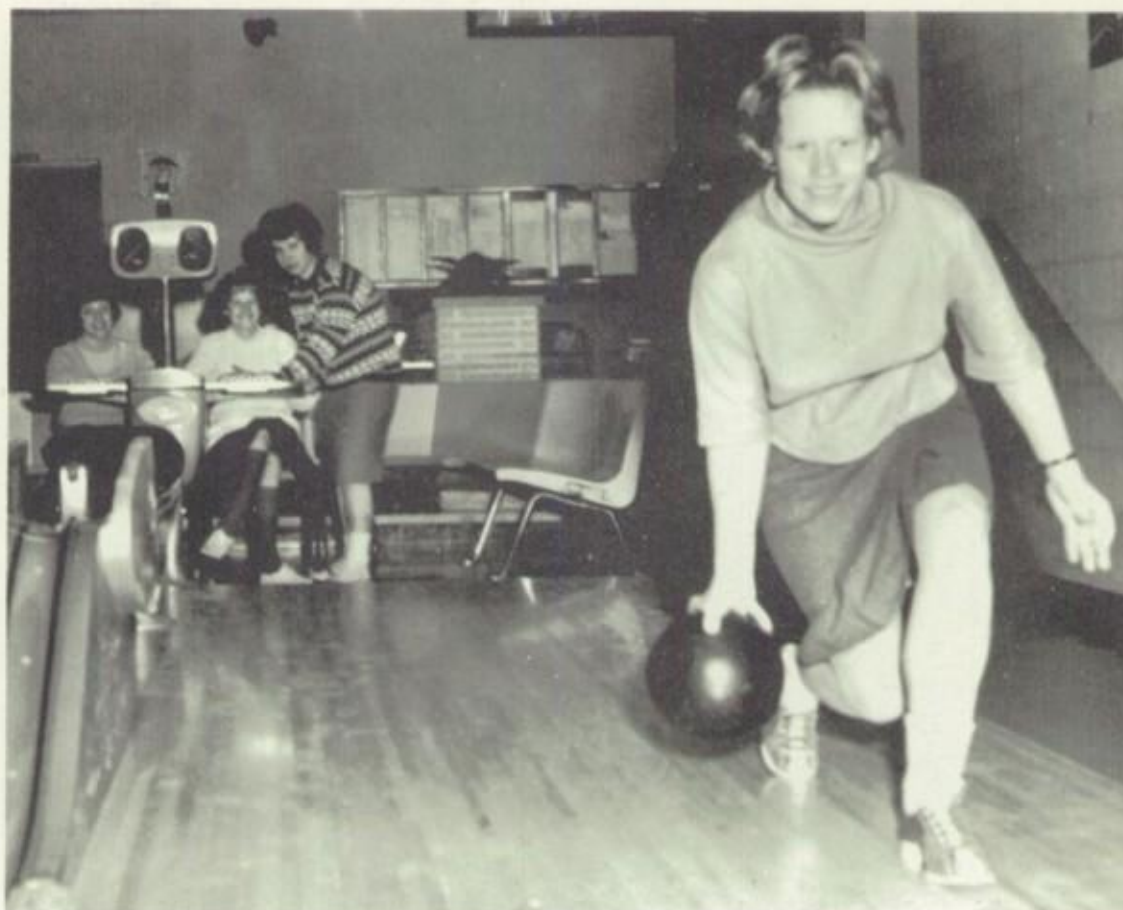

With almost half the school enrolled, GAA started the year with its annual initiation for the Frosh at Moore Park. The GAA council presented the movie GIGI to the girls as a Christmas present. Money-raising projects of the year, which included a bake sale and the selling of sweatshirts, were successful under the direction of Miss Maneval and her assistant Carol Opdycke, who teaches fifth grade at Lincoln.

Activities were unlimited for the enthusiastic girls who participated in basketball, volleyball, and bowling. The members as a whole were divided into teams, then class teams were selected from the most outstanding players. A tournament then determined the best team.

In GAA point awards were given which included an emblem for 400 points, a varsity B for 800 points, a medal for 1200 points, and trophy for anything over 1400 points.

The nine-member council selected the theme, "Fantasie Through Rose-Colored Glasses," for the traditional banquet and dance, held March 30. GAA's highest award went to Beth Brown as 1962 Honor Girl, while Susan Knecht was chosen as Maid of Honor.

Future Business Leaders Organize

Completing their first full year, the FBLA was sparked by the enthusiasm of members who attended the Washington, D. C. convention in June. By sponsoring dances, concessions, and the annual car wash, the club worked toward this year's national convention.

Carol Kelly, Fred Lamont and Diana Rohrs, with Barb Harrington as alternate participated in the spelling contest at the state convention in February. Club members performed clerical services for Bryan's Chamber of Commerce, the Recreation Council, and Orchard Hills Country Club. In April the Outstanding FBLA Member Award was given at the Awards Banquet.

Varsity "B" Promotes Sportsmanship

Varsity B, composed of lettermen from our athletic teams with Coach Hatch and Coach Sumpter as advisers, met monthly. Bob Hamet, a 1958 BHS graduate who has signed in the farm system of the Chicago White Sox, spoke on "Problems Confronting an Athlete." Reverend McGraw also spoke on the differences between sports in his native Scotland and the United States.

The club helped finance the athletic awards by selling programs at games, taking down the canvas after football games, sponsoring a dance, and selling concessions. These awards were the numerals for the freshman teams, the Golden Bear for the reserve teams; the Varsity B for first-year lettermen; the silver key for two years of Varsity service; the gold key for three years, and the most prized of athletic awards — the gold belt buckle which is given for four years of service in one sport.

Movies Make Classes Memorable

"Let 'er roll!" can only mean that a student projectionist is busy in his special little booth controlling the reels. Each period two trained students are available to operate any of our four projectors for any class. Movies, filmstrips, and opaque enlarged pictures are specialties of our thirteen projectionists. Teachers sign for the use of the movie room and a student operator is automatically scheduled.

No one doubts the value of audio-visual aids to modern education — least of all our community. School equipment and projectionists' services are available to civic organizations who wish to highlight their meetings with pictures. Under Mr. Johnson's administration, our school is building a valuable permanent collection of filmstrips for use in all grades. New York Times and Popular Science filmstrips arrive monthly, while movies are rented weekly. Full-length movies are shown in installments in both the High School and Central buildings.

Students Assist

Essential to the circulation of our six thousand library books and hundreds of magazines in the service rendered by student librarians. From eight-fifteen till three-thirty they take charge of the library desk and assist Mrs. Robrock in preparing books for use, keeping records, and advising readers in need of help. Their hours of darkroom work were supervised by Mrs. Robrock and Mr. Masten.

"A" Band Gives Top Performances

Marching band, under the direction of Mr. John Hartman and the swift baton of Ann Hall, presented a commendable performance at the Ohio State Fair. For the first time, they were rained out at the Williams County Fair, but they performed as usual at the Fireman's Convention, the Bryan Jubilee Parade and the Wauseon Homecoming. They presented half-time entertainment at eight football games, and ushered in the Halloween and Christmas parades.

Concert band, made up from the marching band, has full instrumentation including two bassoons and three oboes. Their performances included the Mid-winter concert, the Spring concert and the Panorama.

Twirling Corps

Preliminary to the pageant of parades and football games, drums beat, yards are stepped off and the majorettes strut into position to lead the band down the field. Throughout most of the season, Ann Hall, drum majorette, set the pace for the band and precisioned high-stepping majorettes with her three shrill whistled signals.

Show time for the band was accented with a fire baton routine performed by Vicki Biddle, Sharon Ebaugh, Ann Hall, and Sue Oberlin. Because of the drum majorette's unexpected appendectomy, Sharon Ebaugh was elected to serve in the position as head majorette for the Defiance, Archbold and Montpelier games and also for parades before the games.

The eight girls plus the two alternates, Hollis Farnham and Cindy Hauger, practiced many hours to perfect unique routines and dance steps for public performance. The majorettes were a special attraction at the State Fair, Panorama of Music, and the local Jubilee, Halloween and Christmas parades.

Increased performances due to popular demand marked this year for the dance band, under the direction of John Hartman. This lively group of students provided music for most of the after-game dances, banquets, the school plays and the Panorama of Music. This year they gave a special program for the Rotary meeting. On an invitation arranged by Mr. Howard Emme, they played for the Ohio State Motel Association Convention in Columbus, Ohio, on December 28.

For these many events they played a variety of popular songs which included "Tonight," "When the Saints Go Marching In," "Blue Indigo" and "Skin and Bones." Soloists making their appearances with the band this year were seniors Cathy Hays, Sharon Ebaugh and junior Jeff Johnson.

Audiences Enjoy A Cappella Songs

Performing for many public events, the Bryan High A Cappella Choir under the direction of Orville Dally had a successful season. Bunny Andres accompanied the group with Mary Dachsteiner and David Priebe assisting.

They began the year by singing for the community Thanksgiving service and the traditional Christmas concert. The second semester found them working on numbers for the district contest, the Appreciation Concert with the orchestra, and the Panorama of Music. They concluded the season with the Baccalaureate service.

Working to keep music and robes in order were librarians Bonnie Tuttle and Lois Winters and the robe committee Mel Fireovid, Chuck Opdycke, and Walt Saneda. Twelve muscle-men headed by Dave Thomas formed the riser committee.

Orchestra Has Its Busiest Year

Celebrating its eleventh year, the Senior Orchestra and director Orville Dally found this to be a season rich in experiences and memories.

The first major concert was presented in October at the Toledo University for the Northwest Ohio Teachers Association.

Next on the schedule was an invitation to the orchestra and senior ensemble to perform for the Ohio Music Education Association convention in Cleveland December 1. Here the Bryan musicians played an hour-and-a-half program for a critical and appreciative audience. Mr. Glenn Phillips, from McDonald High School, directed the group in a workshop session demonstrating basic musicianship through rehearsal techniques. Mr. Fred Muller, composer of many orchestra arrangements, directed his own "Vivaldi Violin Concerto" featuring the first violins. Mr. Dally directed in the following part of the program, "Andulucia" and selections from "Flower Drum Song." Contributions from Bryan's industries, the sale of stationery, and donations received from the "Bus Trip" concert financed this showcase performance.

Six other major events were on the agenda: three concerts — Christmas, a "Music Appreciation" Concert, and the Panorama of Music in May featuring Bunny Andres playing Grieg's "Concertino in A Minor"; participation in state-wide orchestra competitions, district, and regional auditions; and graduation exercises.

Tuxedos for the boys added dignity and style to the appearance of the group.

Ensembles Are Program Favorites

Performing for various organizations, the ensembles, directed by Mrs. Orville Dally, developed an outstanding repertoire. The seniors, (Breezettes), in their new lavender and white dresses, made their first appearance at the district meeting of the Ohio Federated Women's Clubs. The juniors, (Cameos), in blue and white checked dresses with navy cummerbunds, and the sophomores in yellow with dark brown cummerbunds, appeared at the Williams County Fair and various other functions.

At Christmas, the three ensembles colorfully depicted the traditions and celebrations of foreign lands.

The Breezettes and the Senior Orchestra traveled to Cleveland on November 30th to perform for the Ohio Music Educators Association selections from "Flower Drum Song." The orchestra and ensemble were guests of the Parma residents.

The ensembles, in their private instruction with Mrs. Dally, develop vocal techniques and stress the cultivation of a stage personality.

In the Spotlight

While our musical organizations play and sing with skillfully coordinated teamwork, the excellence of individual musicians lifts our programs to peak performance. In the circle is FRED LAMONT, our senior drummer, a capable performer from field to tympani. Below is our first lady of the bass viol, PAT PARTEE, who has won acclaim as one of the best in the state. To the right is MARY DACHSTEINER, a versatile musician who auditions in piano, trumpet, and voice. At lower right is CATHY HAYS, brunette songstress who appears with A Cappella, ensemble, and dance band. The KEYNOTES, lower left, composed of DEAN GROVE, TOM SPROW, JEFF JOHNSON, NEIL WERTZ and DAVE PRIEBE are a new organization, popular for close harmony.

Trophies were not in the making for Bryan this season, and the Bears accepted the outcome fortune had in store. After the fateful toss of the coin, the athletes strove their best in a game they loved. Throughout the year they fought hard and always maintained good sportsmanship.

Bears Have Disappointing Season

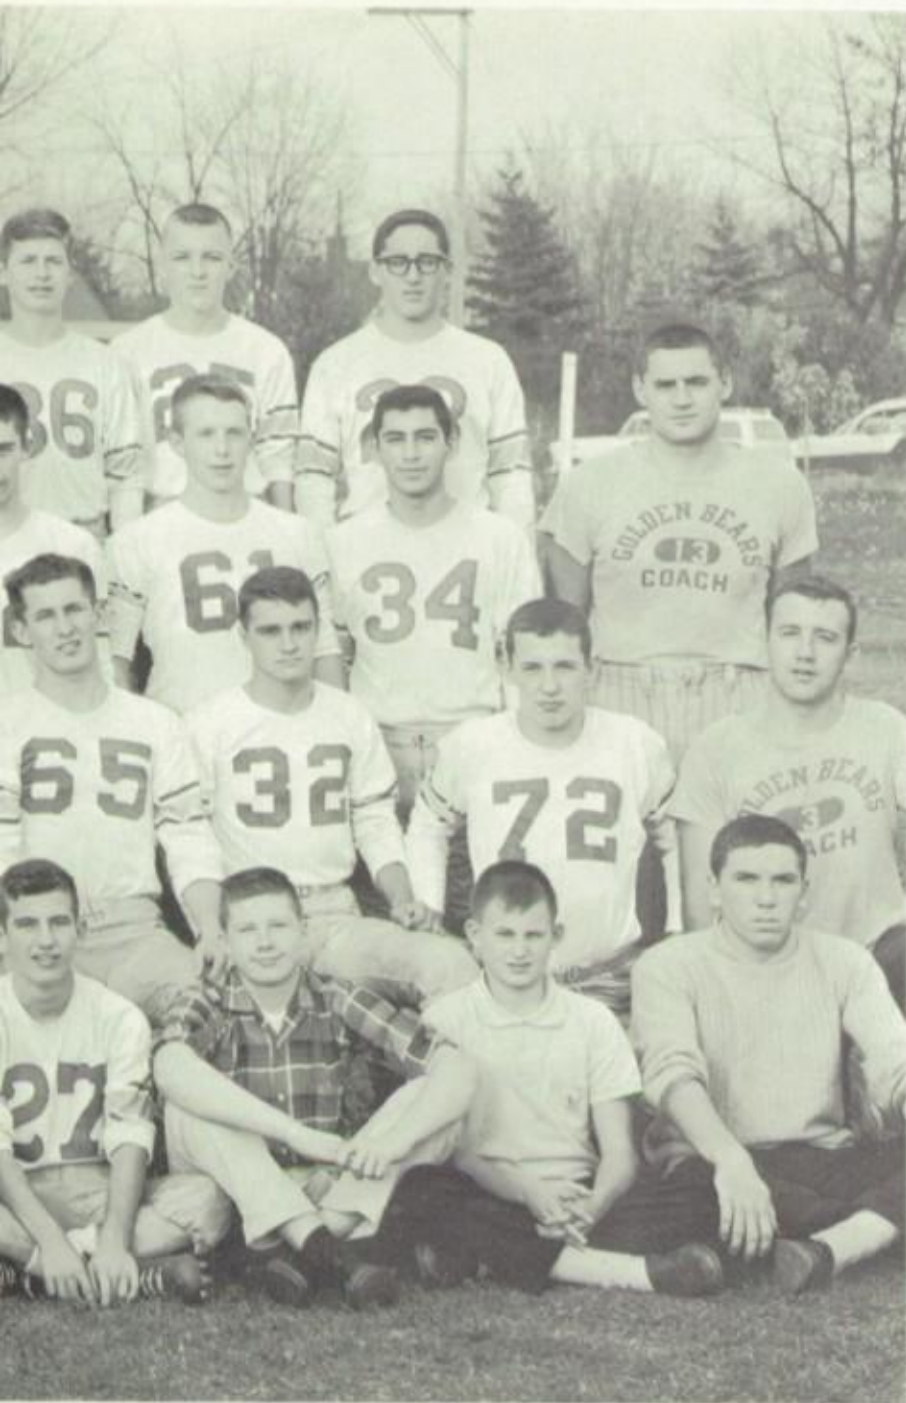

Starting with only seven letter men, the Bears showed great spirit and ability to hustle. They were enthusiastically supported by the student body, and had moments of glory. Co-captains were Mel Fireovid and Steve Moore. Coach Bernie Hatch was assisted by George Stockman, Paul Yoder, Kenny Rollins, Lewis Koehler, and Ray Sumpter, Sophomore Dave Smith was named All-League Second Team offensive center.

In the season opener, Liberty found holes in Bryan's defense. The Bears came to life in the fourth quarter against Van Wert, too late to catch up to an impressive lead. Scoreless against Delta, Bryan showed a strong first-half defense; at Wauseon they were blanked in spite of plenty of breaks. Next their new shotgun defense misfired against the Defiance Bulldogs. Bryan errors aided Archbold; Montpelier Locomotives passed their way to victory; and Swanton squeezed by with a three-point margin. Bryan closed the season playing League-leading Napoleon on a muddy field where fumbles proved costly.

Cheerleaders Spark School Spirit

"We've got the pep" was the watchword for cheerleaders this year. Attending the All-American Cheer Camp in Hartland, Michigan, for one week this summer, the varsity cheer squad won the third place U.S.C.A. trophy for ability, teamwork, personality, and leadership, and in addition came home with many new techniques and cheers to arouse our school spirit. A new cheerblock brightened the games with their plastic purple and gold uniforms and pom poms.

Coached by Dorothy Maneval, the cheerleaders practiced daily after school and presented pep sessions before all home games.

Cagers Provide Hardwood Thrills

Off to a slow start, the Golden Bears gained momentum, but went into a tailspin toward the end of the season, posting an 8-10 record. The team displayed great potential, but had trouble sustaining their efforts for a full thirty-two minutes. The cagers often outplayed their opponents for two quarters, but because of defensive lapses and costly turnovers, they allowed them to come out on the long end of the score.

Co-captains Dennis Stombaugh and Gary Witte led the teams statistically. Stombaugh was high in all thirteen categories, including 212 points, 163 rebounds and 54 assists. Witte was second in points with 150 and in assists with 38. Joe Imm, a two-year letterman got more than his share of rebounds, while Chuck Opdycke frequently came off the bench to spark the play with spirit and hustle. Lowell Trausch and Dean Grove, the team's two big boys at six feet four were second and third in rebounding. Chris Gotshall and Lee Mack proved to be good outside shooters.

Fans were treated to several real thrillers. The Bears won their first game by three points in an overtime against a determined Van Wert team. Liberty Center succumbed by a four-point deficit, while Fairview lost by only two points. In the Kenton game, one of the season's best, the Bears trailed by seven at the half but fought through to a seven-point victory.

RESERVES POST 6-10 RECORD

Having much the same trouble as the varsity in sustaining their efforts, the reserves gained valuable experience. The Cubs were blessed with several tall, well co-ordinated players and some shorter boys who provided speedy floorwork.

BELOW: LAWRENCE GOES HIGH to tie up championship game with 'Pelier. Hoffman is ready for the rebound. A moment later Lirot and Hoffman scored to put Bryan ahead.

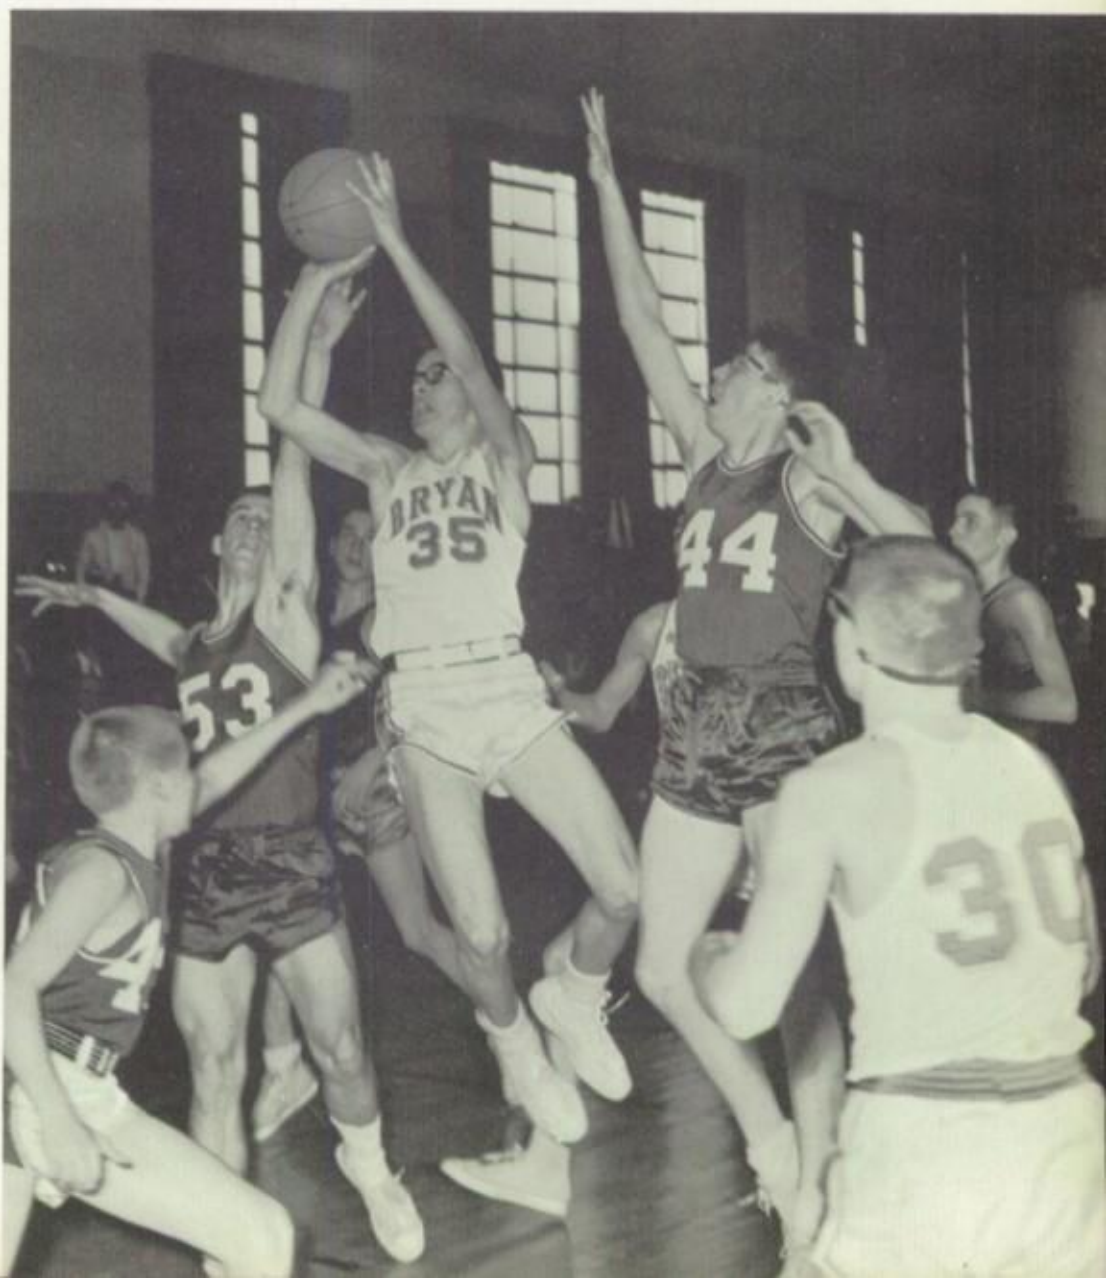

Coached by Kenneth Rollins, the Freshman team showed remarkable promise for our future varsity. The fighting freshmen snared the League tournament held at Delta by coupling a well-balanced offense with brilliant defensive play. With plenty of height in the front line and hustle and scrap from the back-court men, the Bear Cubs lost only two games this season as they rolled easily over most of their opponents. They posted an impressive 12-2 record, totaling 512 points against 351 by their adversaries.

Under the able direction of Coach Hatch, the noon intramural program proved a popular and enjoyable activity. The mid-day program consisted of volleyball, ping pong, shuffleboard, badminton, and basketball. The competition in the basketball tournament was extremely fierce with team five winning the lower bracket while the team of Henry, Kerr, Voigt, Saneda, and Galliers (pictured below) and Jeff Johnson, copped the upper bracket title. Action in the homeroom basketball tournament was equally exciting. These competitive games also gave many boys their chance at officiating the games.

Golf Scores High, Standings Low

Scheduled for ten meets for the season, Coach Dudley Ebersole's tee-men took to the greens at Orchard Hills Country Club with its newly remodeled clubhouse. In dual meets Bryan held a 2-5 record, with John Stine, Scott Rath, John Stockwell and Denny Harmon leading in low scores.

Bears Tie for League Championship

Coached by Ray Sumpter, the Bears racked up a 6-1 season tying with Archbold for the League championship. Our one defeat at the hands of Montpelier was particularly costly because it ended our winning streak of 27 consecutive League victories.

Bob Brannan's capable pitching led the Bears from the very beginning of the season with seventeen strikeouts in the first game. Mel Fireovid and Joe Imm were also starting pitchers. Sophomores Chris Gotshall and Sonny Henry often came through in the clutch with game winning hits. Brannan sparked the team in hitting with a .350 batting average while Isaac led the team in RBI's.

Led by Coach Hatch, the Bryan thinclads maintained their high standard of achievement by easily winning all five of their dual and triangular meets. However, the Bears were nosed out by Bowling Green in the fourth annual Bryan Night Relays and finished a very close third in the League meet.

Solid performances in both track and field accounted for forty-six first places in five meets. Among these Dale Huffman, Chuck Elser, and Lynn Robinson copped the most honors. Huffman, the team's leading scorer with 67 points, lowered the school record in the 120 yard low hurdles with a time of 13.85 seconds. Elser, who set a record in the 220 yard dash with a time of 22.5 seconds, finished the season in second place with 62 points. Robinson, with 61½ points, set a new school and Park Stadium record in the shotput with a heave of 49 feet 4¾ inches. Besides this he was outstanding in the high and low hurdles. Other high scorers were Wiley with 38½, Myers 33½, and Wright with 25½.

Linda Johnston as Track Queen represented Bryan at the League meet at Liberty Center. Here, though Bryan won the high hurdles and 880 yard relays, a lack of first-place positions cut down our competitive strength.

Mr. Rollins and Mr. Winters assisted Coach Hatch.

Bryan's oldest school building houses the Junior High students. Built in 1903, it still has a cheerful atmosphere, and the well-kept lawns and shrubbery make pleasant surroundings for Mr. Sauppe's art class.

Junior High Has Seasoned Faculty

Robert G. Hadley principal of Central Building, guides the education of our 375 seventh and eighth graders. He has an elementary diploma from Bowling Green, a B.S. from Youngstown, and an M.A. from Eastern Michigan University.

During his leisure hours he enjoys restoring old cars or playing trumpet in the Notesmen Dance Band.

Activities for Junior High are closely coordinated with their class work. Their school day was lengthened by seven minutes. The Ohio History club, "History Hounds" completed its second year, and the girls formed bowling teams. Pep sessions before games boosted school spirit.

The science department and the library were re-modeled and industrial arts study was augmented by new textbooks including elementary mechanical drawing.

Daily office operation is expertly handled by Mrs. Paul Garwood who is completing her fourth year as Mr. Hadley's secretary and who takes a special interest in helping students.

Veteran custodians Tom Guise and Charles Salsbury also take great interest in their work, helping the teachers with room projects that require everything from cages to papier-maché. They are frequently called upon to assist high school and other groups using the auditorium. They are assisted in Operation Clean-up by Mrs. Sam Phillips.

Mr. BRANNAN, previously a sixth grade teacher, teaches seventh grade language arts and geography. He graduated from Bowling Green State University with additional work in the summer school at Indiana University. Summer, 1961, called him to duty at the army summer camp in Cleveland. He is the supervisor of the Junior High noon movie program and an avid music fan.

Mrs. CLARKE, who has completed her tenth year teaching seventh grade in the Bryan City Schools system, is a graduate of Bowling Green State University. She sponsors the seventh grade and makes an extensive hobby of Oriental art. This year she used several films to aid students in their study of world geography.

Mr. COLEMAN, teaching full time this year in the Junior High, has classes in drafting and woodworking. He is a graduate of Southern Illinois University. Two new textbooks aid in the instruction of elementary drafting, a new course to the Junior High curriculum. Swimming and bowling occupy most of his leisure time. Last summer he was the assistant manager at the swimming pool.

This Was the Year

Finally this was it . . . the year of man in space. First the Russian Cosmonauts, Gagarin and Titov, then the American Astronauts, Shepard, Grissom, and Ohio's own John Glenn probed the edges of infinity. By television all America camped at Cape Canaveral, and we Ohioans had a new slogan — "First in light, first in flight, and first in orbit."

Contrasting with the heady glow of space conquest, mundane affairs provided headaches. East Berlin became a walled prison; a mismanaged coupe in Cuba discredited the U.S.; French Algerians terrorized the DeGaulle government; Laos and Vietnam struggled with Communism; the Congo seethed with intrigue and violence; and Red China knocked ominously at the door of the U.N. Russia (just testing) exploded a 50-megaton nuclear bomb, plunging the free world into a backyard controversy on fall-out shelters. The death of Dag Hammarskjold in a mysterious plane crash left the U.N. tottering on the brink of dissolution and bankruptcy.

At home the "New Frontier" was one year old. American Motors pioneered in profit sharing; John Birch patriotism caused concern, and Freedom Riders pursued Jim Crow through the South. The nation mourned the loss of Sam Rayburn, Grandma Moses, Ernest Hemingway, and James Thurber.

In Bryan it was the year of the long-contested underpass, and although trains were fewer than ever, a wreck of forty-one cars scattered cattle all over the county. Lynnette Burkholder was our Jubilee queen, and Paul VanGundy became mayor of our 7,416 citizens.

Miss Leah Barstow, shown at right, retired after forty-six years of teaching and was honored by her colleagues at their Christmas dinner.

This was a year of prodigious achievement by young athletes. The Series-winning Yankees produced outfielder Roger Maris, who bested even the great Babe with 61 home runs for the season, though Ruth's 60 was still the record for 154 games. John Uelses vaulted 16 feet, 3/4 inches with the controversial fibreglass pole, and Peter Snell cut down the mile to 3.54.4 minutes. Wilt Chamberlain scored one hundred points in a single basketball game, and Ohio State's Jerry Lucas was Athlete of the Year. Hassle of the year at OSU came when the faculty turned down a bid to the Rose Bowl, leaving Minnesota to trounce U.C.L.A. Even dancing went athletic as Chubby Checkers gave a "twist" to rock and roll. The "Jackie look" set the style, and the Kennedy influence helped to advance the cause of youth everywhere.

"Zeta Cordia" is a name derived from Zetagathian and Concordia, which were the names of the two BHS literary societies which published the first yearbook in 1914.
